

Report of
Ministry Director of Engagement
Pastor Liz Frey
February 2019

Baptisms

Weddings

Funerals Marie Werley January 18, 2019

First Call Theological Education

This time with first call colleagues continues to be important for my self-care and my learning. In the January meeting, we explored intersectionality and participated in an eye-opening module. We also did a Bible study and discussed how intersectionality affected the lives of several biblical figures.

Carlisle Pike Conversation

Last week, a group of pastors met with Pastor Jennifer Hope-Tringali to talk about the Carlisle Pike corridor. Right now, there is little Lutheran presence in this area. For me, this group was an excellent start for collaborative ideas and ministries. We will be meeting again in March.

New Members

For the last few weeks, New Member classes have been held in the library. It has been a joy to be a part of this class, in which we discussed and explored how we worship, connect, and serve in this community. On Sunday, February 10, we welcomed 16 adults as new members of Trinity!

Messiah College

On February 6, Pastor Horner, Peter Fox and I visited with Doug Curry, the worship pastor at Messiah College. The hope of this conversation was beginning a relationship with the college and its students. Doug was both helpful and honest as we discussed internship and service opportunities for his students here at Trinity.

Conference Meeting

On Sunday, January 27, the pastors and Nancy Martin, one of Trinity's synod delegates, attended the West Shore Winter Conference meeting. The purpose of this meeting was to begin conversations about the upcoming bishop's election. I found the conversation to be educational for me since this will be the first bishop's election I experience as a pastor.

Stewardship Team

This team will be meeting in a few weeks on February 27 to discuss an expanded view of stewardship. I have been preparing for this meeting by reading and exploring how to talk about stewardship of time and talent. I am excited to share the information I have learned!